

START HERE: Build Your Website with Codex Sites

One class. One skill. One new website. The skill asks the questions and walks you through the entire process.

1 Add the skill

In Codex, open Plugins > Skills > Create > Upload from computer. Select builders-codex-sites-business-website.zip and finish adding it.

2 Start fresh in Sites

Open a brand-new Codex task. Choose Sites, use @Sites if shown, or say you want to build a website with Sites. Do not open an old website project.

3 Use the skill

Type $builders-codex-sites-business-website. If Codex shows the skill as a choice, select it. Then paste the starter message below.

COPY AND PASTE THIS

Use $builders-codex-sites-business-website to walk me through the complete first class. Help me build a brand-new one-page business or personal-brand website with Codex Sites. Ask the short questions, create my first preview, help me make changes, add a simple email contact path, and save it privately. Use only what I tell you or attach for this website.

4 Answer the short questions

You will be asked about your name, audience, offer, visitor action, sections, colors, style, images, real proof, and contact email. You may answer choose for me, skip, or I don't know.

5 Review your first website

Sites creates the first layout and design from your answers. Check the headline, sections, colors, buttons, contact path, and mobile preview. Nothing needs to be perfect yet.

TRY THREE SIMPLE CHANGES

Copy: Make my headline clearer for someone new to my business.

Visual: Use warmer colors and make the page feel more personal.

Layout: Move Services above About and make the contact button easier to find.

6 Save and stop

Save a reviewable version and keep it private. You have completed Session 1 when the website looks like yours and you know how to ask Sites for another change in plain English.

YOUR SESSION 1 FINISH LINE

A recognizable one-page website + a working email button or email-opening form + confidence making your own edits. No domain, CRM, Google Form, automation, or publishing is required today.
